FRED C. FOX COMES TO ALBUQUERQUE FOR THE FAIR

General Manager of Santa Fe Railroad, Baseball Fan and Friend of City and New Mexico. Visits Here.

Prominent among the visitors to Albuquerque today is Fred C. Fox, general manager of the Santa Fe railroad with headquarters in Amarillo, Texas, who arrived in the city last night to attend the first state fair. Mr. Fox, who began his railroad career in New Mexico, and who always considers New Mexico as his second home, no difference where he is, is an ardent baseball fan, a lover of horse and more finished in a horse race, and was an interested spectator at the fair grounds this afternoon. Albuquerque is always glad to welcome Mr. Fox, many of the railroad men and business men of this city having known him for two decades and knowing him as no other name than "Fred."

Mr. Fox will probably leave for home tomorrow or Saturday in a special train and will look over conditions on the lines on the way.

AUCTION SALE OF BUSINESS PROPERTY

Friday, Oct. 13th, at 10 a. m. I will sell at public auction the following business property located at 706-708 Central avenue, consisting of two store buildings and lots, with modern fronts, and up-to-date. It would be time lost to undertake to tell the people of the city, with what rapidity the business is traveling westward on Central avenue. The property is now rented for $600, and by agreement, there will be quite a raise when present contracts are up. A chance it seems to me to buy business property cheap, or in other words: to make a paying investment. The sale will take place strictly at 10 a. m. in front of the property.

HARD WORK SAVES DIRT APPROACH TO BRIDGE

County Surveyor and Road Supervisor Had Strenuous Time of it During High Water.

After working for three days and three nights without interruption, County Surveyor A. E. Cagle and Road Supervisor T. J. Bryant this morning had the satisfaction of seeing the dirt approach to the west end of the big concrete and steel bridge over the Rio Grande at Maricao in a safe condition. The dirt approach, by the north, and which washed away the big boom at Domingos and the wooden bridge of Pena Blanca city, miles above. There was never any danger that the main bridge, which is damaged, but the washing away of the dirt approach would be a present indefinite delay to traffic.
